Winter Accessories for Dogs

It's raining (more like snowing) cats and dogs. Get your pooch prepared.

Snow and salt wreaks havoc on Puppy's feet. Stock up on Pawz, disposable rubber boots in a bevy of colors that he can actually walk in.

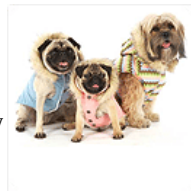

It's your fault Precious is a princess. Stash Wagwear's messenger pouch (holds dogs up to fourteen pounds) in your purse for those moments when she refuses to take another step.

You can't blame Snuggles for not wanting to crouch down on the cold, wet ground. Investing in a Poop Tent could save you both some serious frustration.

A fur coat may seem sufficient, but subzero temps will leave your pooch shivering unless he has a down parka.

Muffet's an under-the-covers snuggler? Buy her a sleeping bag and salvage your fancy bed linens.

Be sure Marley wears a jazzy collar or harness with her pet license attached, just in case she gets lost.

Proving that you are way more than just a fair weather friend.
